* The cost of attending a UNCF college averaged $5,714 in 1985-86, about two-thirds the $8,583 cost at independent colleges nationally.

INTRODUCTION

The United Negro College Fund's Annual Statistical Report is a compilation of the most recent statistical information on UNCF's forty-three member institutions. All UNCF institutions are private, accredited, predominantly black colleges and universities. Forty-one member institutions offer baccalaureate programs, while two (Atlanta University and the Interdenominational Theological Center) offer graduate degree studies exclusively. Several member institutions, including Fisk, Tuskegee and Xavier, offer graduate programs in addition to their undergraduate curricula.

The forty-three UNCF member institutions have special significance because of their traditional and continuing role in educating minority group students for productive and creative participation in American life. During the past century, the private black colleges have provided education otherwise unavailable to thousands of able and deserving youths. Much of the black leadership in America today is provided by the alumni of these institutions.

Public and private historically black colleges (HBCs) comprise about 3% of all institutions of higher education in the United States, yet they enroll 22% of all blacks attending college. Of over 3,000 colleges and universities nationwide, 100 are considered historically black.[1] Of these, 43 are public and 57 are private; 87 are four-year institutions. Of the 87 four-year HBCs, 49 are private and 38 are public. Forty-three of the 49 four-year private HBCs are members of the United Negro College Fund.

Total black enrollment in higher education in the fall of 1984 was 995,759, with 216,050, or 22%, enrolled in HBCs.[2] Nearly 71% of the students enrolled in HBCs attended public HBCs (153,151); approximately 29% (62,899) attended private HBCs. Of the 62,899 enrolled in private HBCs in 1984, 43,805, or 70%, attended United Negro College Fund member institutions.

About 42% of blacks enrolled in higher education in 1984 attended two-year institutions; the remainder attended four-year colleges and universities. With regard to UNCF colleges, about 8% of blacks enrolled in four-year colleges in 1984 attended UNCF institutions.

Method

The statistical information included in this study was obtained from the UNCF Questionnaire, which is sent annually to each of the member institutions. Enrollment data used in the report are based on the fall of each academic year in order to facilitate comparisons with other institutions.

Fall enrollment data exclude summer school students and students who did not enroll until the spring semester. Total enrollment at UNCF institutions, including summer school and additional spring semester students, is approximately 45,000 students.

ENROLLMENT

UNCF colleges enrolled 43,608 students in the fall of 1985, a 0.4% decrease from the previous year (Appendix A).

Enrollment at the over 3,000 colleges and universities around the country also changed very little from 1984 to 1985. There were over 12 million students attending college in the fall of 1985[1], down 1% from the previous year. Independent colleges experienced a 0.8% decline in total enrollment in the fall of 1985.

Nineteen UNCF institutions reported an increase in the number of students enrolled at their schools, 23 experienced a loss, and one reported its enrollment remained the same.

Full-time and Part-time Enrollment

Of the 43,608 students enrolled at UNCF colleges, the overwhelming majority (92%, or 40,164 students) were enrolled full-time; 8%, or 3,444 students, were part-time students (Appendix B).

Enrollment by Sex

There were more women than men enrolled in UNCF colleges in the fall of 1985, a trend that has remained stable over the past decade. About 44% of all UNCF students were male and 56% were female.

At the undergraduate level, 43% were male and 57% female. The balance shifts for graduate students--male students made up 53% of the total and female students 47% (Appendix C).

Non-black Enrollment

A total of 1,276 non-black students were enrolled in UNCF colleges in the fall of 1985, representing 3% of the total UNCF enrollment. There were 748 students with Hispanic surnames enrolled in the member colleges, over 80% of whom attended colleges in Florida. There were 528 white students attending UNCF colleges in the fall of 1985 (Appendix E).

Transfer Students

In the fall of 1985, 2,236 students transferred into UNCF colleges, an 11.7% increase over the previous year. Transfer students represented 5% of the total UNCF enrollment (Appendix F).

The number of transfers from four-year colleges increased by 7% to 1,049 in 1985. About 57%, or 602 students, transferred to UNCF colleges from predominantly white four-year colleges; 447, or 43%, transferred to UNCF institutions from predominantly black four-year colleges.

Transfer students from two-year colleges numbered 955 in the fall of 1985, a 6% increase over the previous year's figure. Seventy-nine percent, or 755 students, transferred from predominantly white two-year colleges and 200 students, or 21%, transferred from predominantly black two-year colleges.

Geographical Distribution

Approximately two-thirds (28,418) of the students attending UNCF colleges in the fall of 1985 came from the southeastern region of the U.S. Just over 10% of UNCF students were from the Northeast. There were 4,397 students from the Central states, representing 10% of the total fall 1985 enrollment. The 3,171 students from the western region accounted for about 7% of the total UNCF enrollment (Appendix J).

In the fall of 1985, there were 22,594 students from 157 principal UNCF campaign cities attending member colleges (Appendix K).

Fifty-nine percent of UNCF students attended colleges in their home states in the fall of 1985, 34% were from out-of-state and 7% were foreign students (Appendix I).

There were 2,856 foreign students enrolled in UNCF colleges in the fall of 1985 (Appendix L), and 359 students from U.S. possessions (Appendix J).

Freshman Enrollment

First-time freshman enrollment at UNCF colleges declined 1.3% to 11,900 in the fall of 1985 (Appendix M). Nationally, freshman enrollment remained stable, increasing less than 1% (0.5%) over 1984.[3] At all independent colleges nationally, freshman enrollment increased 0.7%.

Applications to UNCF institutions rose 12.6% for the fall 1985 entering class, 35,552 in all. About 46% accepted for admission actually enrolled, down from 51% last year. Twenty-three UNCF colleges reported an increase in the number of applications received.

Academic Rank

About 13% of UNCF entering freshmen graduated in the upper 10% of their high school class in 1985. First-time freshmen in the upper half of their graduating class accounted for 45% of all entering freshmen (Appendix N).

Prospective Freshman Profile

The data in this section are taken from the responses of the more than 13,000 high school seniors who requested that their Scholastic Aptitude or Achievement Test scores be sent to one or more UNCF institutions.[4]

High School Grades

The high school grade point average (GPA) of prospective UNCF freshmen was 2.76, about a B-. The GPA of prospective freshmen nationally was 3.03.[5]

Years of High School Study by Subject

Prospective UNCF students studied most subjects for about the same length of time as prospective freshmen nationally, with the exception of foreign languages.

The average prospective UNCF freshman studied English for nearly four years (3.9), the same as their peers nationally (4.0). Prospective UNCF freshmen took courses in social studies for just over three years (3.1) and foreign languages for 1.7 years. At the national level, students studied these subjects for 3.3 years and 2.3 years respectively.

Prospective freshmen at UNCF colleges took classes in mathematics for 3.5 years, compared with 3.7 years of study for their peers nationally. Prospective UNCF students studied biology for 1.5 years, about the same as their peers nationally (1.4). They studied physical sciences for 1.7 years, slightly less than their national counterparts (1.9).

Advanced Placement

Thirty percent of prospective UNCF freshmen planned to apply for advanced placement in English, compared with 26.4% of their peers nationally. Prospective UNCF freshmen were also more likely to apply for advanced placement in biology (10.5%) than prospective freshmen nationally (9.8%).

Prospective UNCF first-time freshmen were less likely to apply for advanced placement in foreign languages and the physical sciences than their national counterparts. Approximately the same percentage of prospective UNCF freshmen and prospective freshmen nationally planned to apply for advanced placement in mathematics (about 23%) and social studies (about 14%).

Educational Aspirations

Following the trend of the past five years, prospective UNCF freshmen were still more likely than their peers nationally to aspire to graduate study--51.1% of UNCF students, compared with 45.6% of prospective freshmen nationally. Over one-fifth (21.8%) of prospective UNCF freshmen planned to obtain an M.D., Ph.D., J.D., or other professional degree, compared with 18.8% of prospective freshmen nationally.

Intended Majors

Over the past five years, prospective freshmen both at UNCF colleges and colleges nationally have shown an increasing interest in business and technical fields such as computer science. Both prospective UNCF freshmen and their peers nationally chose business and health and medicine as the two most popular subject areas. Business was the first choice of one-fourth of prospective UNCF freshmen; 21% of prospective freshmen nationally picked this area as their first choice. Seventeen percent of UNCF prospective freshmen chose health and medical majors; 14% of freshmen nationally made this their first choice.

The next most popular major differed for UNCF freshmen and prospective freshmen nationally. Computer science was the first choice of 11.8% of prospective UNCF freshmen, compared with 7.1% of their national counterparts. Nearly 12% of prospective freshmen nationally made engineering their first choice; 8.8% of UNCF students chose this major.

Prospective UNCF students were more likely to choose the social sciences (8.6%) than their peers nationally (7.5%). Students from both groups chose education in about equal proportion, 4.5% of prospective UNCF freshmen and 4.7% of prospective freshmen nationally.

FACULTY

There were 2,936 faculty members at UNCF colleges in 1985, a decrease of 0.8% from the previous year's figure of 2,959 (Appendix O). Separations (which do not include retirement) were 13% of the total faculty, and new appointments accounted for 14% of the total (Appendix P). Sixteen colleges, or about one-third of all UNCF member colleges, reported an increase in the number of full-time equivalent faculty, 24 institutions showed a decrease, and three colleges reported no change.

Faculty by Degree

In 1985, 45.6% of UNCF faculty held doctoral degrees, virtually unchanged from the previous year (Appendix O). This percentage has remained relatively stable over the past five years.

Faculty by Race

Of the 2,936 faculty members at UNCF colleges, 1,902, or 66.1% were black and 1,034 or 33.9% were nonblack. The number of black faculty decreased by 2% from the previous year, and the number of nonblack faculty rose 2% in 1985 (Appendix O).

Faculty Distribution by Subject Area

The humanities and language division employed the most faculty in 1985-86, about 23% of all UNCF faculty. The next largest category, science and mathematics, had 22% of the faculty members at UNCF colleges (Appendix Q).

About 15% of UNCF faculty gave instruction in the social sciences, 14% taught in the education division, and 12% taught business courses. Seven percent of UNCF faculty fell into the category of fine and applied arts, 4% taught in the vocational education and health division, and 3% gave instruction in engineering and computer science.

Faculty Salaries

UNCF faculty salaries rose 5.2% overall, keeping ahead of the 3.2% inflation rate from 1984-85 to 1985-86[1] (Appendix R).

By category, associate professors experienced the highest salary increase, 5.9%; the average salary for assistant professors showed the smallest increase, 4.5%.

Full professors at UNCF colleges earned an average $24,103 in 1985-86, up 4.8% from the previous year's figure. Associate professors had an average salary of $20,554 at the member colleges. Assistant professors earned $18,140 on the average; instructors had an annual income of $16,136.

Average UNCF Faculty Salaries by Rank
1984-85 and 1985-86

Instructor	15,263	16,136	5.7
All Levels	$18,752	$19,733	5.2

Faculty at UNCF colleges earned considerably less than their peers at all levels at independent baccalaureate institutions nationally.[2] Full professors at UNCF institutions fared the worst in comparison with their peers. Salaries for full professors at UNCF colleges were less than two-thirds (63.1%) those of professors at independent colleges nationally. UNCF instructors earned the most compared with the salaries of their peers at independent colleges (86.3%).

Employee Composition

There were 9,718 persons employed at UNCF colleges in the 1985-86 academic year (Appendix S). Thirty-six percent, or 3,523, were faculty (full- and part-time), 1,168, or 12%, were administrators and 5,027, or 52%, were general service workers (including clerical, technical and other non-academic and non-professional employees).

DEGREES GRANTED

The number of degrees awarded by UNCF colleges remained steady from 1984 to 1985. A total of 6,352 degrees were awarded to UNCF students in 1985, virtually unchanged from the previous year's total of 6,354 (Appendix T).

The number of bachelor's degrees, 5,695, declined just under 1% from 1984 to 1985. Master's degrees were awarded to 462 students (a 2.4% increase), 151 students earned professional degrees and 44 were awarded doctoral degrees.

Degrees Conferred by Subject Area

Since 1975, there has been a national trend away from degrees in education and the social sciences in favor of degrees in business, communications and technical fields such as computer science (Appendix U).

At UNCF colleges, students have followed this trend toward business degrees. UNCF colleges awarded 2,115 degrees in business in 1985, or one-third of the total earned degrees. About half of those business degrees were earned in business administration. In 1975, about 17% of UNCF students earned businesss degrees.

The social sciences ranked as the second most popular major for UNCF graduates in 1985; 13.6% of all degrees (861) were awarded in this area. In 1975, nearly one-fourth of all UNCF degrees were awarded in the social sciences.

In 1975, education was the most popular major at UNCF colleges. Thirty percent of all graduating students were education majors. Since then, education has declined in popularity. Thirteen percent of earned degrees at UNCF institutions were awarded in education in 1985, 821 in all.

Degrees in biology were awarded to 361 (5.7%) of all UNCF graduates; mathematics and the physical sciences degrees were earned by 3.1% and 3.6%, respectively, of all 1985 graduates.

UNCF institutions awarded 4.1% of all 1985 degrees in the health professions, 4.5% in communications and 1.7% in engineering.

Dual-degree Engineering

In the 1985-86 academic year, there were 1,298 UNCF students enrolled in the dual-degree engineering programs at 26 member colleges, compared with 1,272 students last year (Appendix V). Over two-thirds of the students in these programs were male (69%) and 31% were female.

Prospective Freshman Financial Profile

Two important measures of financial status are the annual family income and the ability of the family to contribute towards the student's education. In 1985, the median family income of prospective UNCF freshmen was $17,100, about half the $32,200 median family income of prospective freshmen nationally.[1] Over one-third of prospective UNCF freshmen reported family incomes under $12,000 annually; nationally, 12% of prospective freshmen were in this category. The median expected parental contribution (EPC) for prospective freshmen nationally has more than doubled since 1980, according to the College Entrance Examination Board. For prospective UNCF freshmen, however, their EPC has remained virtually unchanged over this five-year period. In 1985, the expected contribution for prospective UNCF freshmen was $0, compared with a $2,020 EPC for prospective freshmen nationally.

In light of these statistics, it is not surprising that 93% of prospective UNCF freshmen planned to apply for financial assistance, compared with 77% of prospective freshmen nationally.

Total Financial Aid

About 86% of all UNCF students received some form of financial assistance in 1984-85. At all colleges and universities nationally, 70% of all full-time undergraduates received financial aid. At independent institutions nationally, the figure was even lower--46.7% of all private college students were financial aid recipients.[2]

In 1984-85, UNCF students received $149,202,492 in financial assistance from all sources, an increase of $1.94 million, or 1.3%, over the previous year (Appendix W). Most of this increase came from a 19% rise in borrowing through the Guaranteed Student Loan program.

Over the past five years, an increasing number of UNCF students have been taking out loans to finance their education. In 1984-85, loans accounted for 30% of the total financial aid allocation to UNCF students, compared with about 9% of the total in 1979-80.

Pell and SEOG Grants

While the Pell Grant is still the largest single source of aid, it now plays a smaller role in financial aid compared with five years ago. In 1979-80, Pell Grant allocations accounted for 42% of all financial aid to UNCF students; in 1984-85, this figure was 28%.

The combined allocations for the Pell and SEOG Grants equalled over half (53%) of all UNCF financial aid five years ago. In 1984-85, these two programs accounted for 37% of total financial aid to UNCF students.

In 1984-85, 28,209 students, or 65% of all UNCF students, received the Pell Grant. Pell Grants totalled $41,200,289, an increase of just under one percent (0.8%) over the previous year. The size of the average grant rose 4.4% to $1,461.

Thirty-eight percent (16,654 students) of all UNCF students received Supplementary Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG) amounting to $13,772,958 in 1984-85. This figure represents a 4.7% increase in funds over the previous year. The average grant increased 6.4% to $827.

College Work-Study

The total allocation for the College Work-Study program in 1984-85 was $16,900,803, down 5% from the previous year. About 41% of all UNCF students (17,738) received an average income from academic year work of $953, a 0.5% increase in the average over 1983-84.

Institutional and State Scholarships

In 1984-85, 17,136 students, or 39% of all UNCF students, received state scholarships totalling $15,366,285. The total allocation rose 10% and the size of the average grant ($897) increased 4% over the previous year.

UNCF colleges awarded institutional aid to 8,785 students in 1984-85, or one-fifth of all UNCF students. Institutional scholarships equalled $13,063,694, up 9% over the previous year. The size of the average grant decreased 2% to $1,487.

Guaranteed Student Loans (GSL)

GSL loans were second only to the Pell Grant in both total allocation and percentage of participating students. Forty-six percent of all UNCF students received GSL loans in 1984-85. The $39,286,414 borrowed under this program accounted for over one-fourth (26%) of all UNCF financial assistance.

The number of UNCF students receiving GSL loans increased sharply, over 22% in 1984-85. In that year, 19,872 students borrowed an average $1,977 under the GSL program.

National Direct Student Loans (NDSL)

Monies borrowed under the NDSL program totalled $5,223,352 in 1984-85, down 1.7% from the previous year. About 18% of all UNCF students or 7,893 students, took out NDSL loans, the average size of which was $662.

Other Sources

Scholarships from all other sources, amounting to $3,852,827, were awarded to 11% of all UNCF students (4,905) in 1984-85.

In 1984-85, 197 UNCF students received veterans' benefits totalling $535,870.

COLLEGE COSTS

In 1985-86, UNCF students paid an average $5,714 to attend a member college (Appendix X). From 1984-85 to 1985-86, total costs rose 4.7% At independent four-year colleges nationally, students paid an average $8,583 to attend college, one-third higher than at UNCF colleges.[1] Costs at independent colleges rose 7.3%.

Tuition

Tuition and fees at UNCF colleges rose 4.7% to $3,223 in the 1985-86 academic year, compared with an average $5,418 tuition at independent institutions nationally. UNCF tuition costs, as a percentage of independent college tuitions nationally, have decreased in the past five years, from 66% in 1981-82 to 60% in 1985-86.

UNCF tuition is expected to increase 5.6% to $3,403 in the 1986-87 academic year; at independent four-year colleges nationally, tuition is expected to rise 6.9% to $5,793.[2]

Room and Board

Average room and board costs were $2,141 at UNCF colleges in 1985-86, a 4.7% increase over the previous year. At independent colleges throughout the nation, room and board costs averaged $2,781, about one-fourth higher than at UNCF colleges.

Books and Supplies

The costs of books and supplies at UNCF colleges and at independent colleges nationally were about the same--$350 for UNCF colleges, $384 at independent colleges nationally.

INSTITUTIONAL FINANCES

Total revenues at UNCF colleges equalled $387,836,023 in 1984-85, a 2.4% increase over the previous year. Total current fund expenditures rose 2.3% to $383,244,379. Fewer UNCF colleges were operating at a deficit in 1984-85 than in the previous academic year--14, compared with 17 colleges in 1983-84 (Appendix Y).

Current Fund Revenues

Average revenues at UNCF colleges were $9,019,442 in 1984-85 (Appendix Y). Average revenues per student increased 2.9% to $8,894.

UNCF colleges, like colleges nationally, receive a major portion of their income from tuition and fees. However, because they must keep tuition costs affordable for their mostly low-income students, UNCF institutions receive less of their income from this source, 38% compared with 53% at independent four-year colleges nationally[1] (Appendix Z).

Funds from the federal government accounted for 22% of UNCF college revenues in 1984-85, and 1% of total UNCF college revenues came from state government.

UNCF institutions received 16% of their income from private gifts, compared with 11% at independent baccalaureate institutions nationally. Four percent of UNCF income came from their endowments, compared with 6% at independent colleges nationally.

Current Fund Expenditures

UNCF institutions spent an average $8,912,660 in 1984-85, a 2.2% increase over the previous year (Appendix Y). Average expenditures per student increased 2.7% to $8,788.

The largest single expense item was instruction--25% of all UNCF expenditures in 1984-85 (Appendix AA). At independent colleges nationally, 28% of total expenditures went for instruction.[2]

Institutional support (general administrative and executive office expenses) was 18% of total UNCF expenses in 1984-85, compared with 15% at independent colleges nationally. Scholarships and fellowships were 9% of the total expenditures at UNCF colleges and 11% of the total at independent colleges nationally.

Ten percent of total UNCF expenditures went for plant operation and maintenance both at UNCF colleges and independent colleges nationally. Student services and academic support were 8% and 5% respectively of total UNCF expenditures in 1984-85. Student services includes expenditures for admissions, financial aid, counseling, dean of students, etc. Academic support covers those monies disbursed for libraries, academic administration, etc. At independent four-year institutions nationally, 8% of their total budgets were spent on student services and 6% on academic support.

UNCF institutions spent about 3% of their total budgets on research; at independent four-year colleges nationally, research expenses were less than 1% of the total budget. About 2% of UNCF expenditures went to public service, compared with less than 1% at independent colleges throughout the nation.

Auxiliary enterprises and miscellaneous expenses accounted for 15% and 5% respectively of total UNCF expenses.

Endowment

The total endowment for UNCF colleges increased 17.2% to $222,073,336 in 1984-85 (Appendix BB). Nationally, college endowments increased 25.4%.[3]

The average UNCF endowment in 1984-85 was $5,164,496, just over half (55%) the $9,352,830 average endowment at independent four-year colleges nationally.[4] The average endowment per UNCF student was $5,092, compared with $8,557 per student at independent baccalaureate institutions nationally.
